

The Enormous Turnip

Retold by Sue Arengo
Illustrated by Adrienne Salgado

The man's got a seed. He goes in the garden. He puts the seed in the ground.

The seed grows. The man's happy.

The seed grows and grows.
It's a turnip.
The turnip's big. It's very big.

The man's very happy.
'It's big,' he says.

The man's hungry. He wants to eat the turnip.

The man pulls the turnip. The turnip doesn't move.

The man sees the woman.

'Come and help!' he says.

'Pull!' says the man.

The woman pulls the man. The man pulls the turnip.

The turnip doesn't move.
