Seventy percent of Australia is hot dry land called the "outback". Kids living in the outback can't go to school. They have lessons on the radio. And you must always carry water with you when you travel.

Aborigenes are the original inhabitants of Australia. Some tribes* are sixty thousand years old. Their holy place is Ayers Rock, which is in the middle of Australia. This enormous rock is three kilometres long and a hundred and forty-eight metres high. The Aborigine word for it is "Uluru". There are caves in the rock with Aboriginal paintings. Uluru is one of nature's greatest wonders.

Australia is famous for its big waves and for surfing. The waves can sometimes be very dangerous and when the surfers see a red flag on the beach they know they are not allowed to surf.

AThe lady of the lamp

There are many people who have worked all their lives to help others live better and longer lives. Perhaps the best-known of these is Florence Nightingale, who was a nurse and who changed nursing into a respected profession. Before Florence Nightingale began her work, there was no organized nursing in hospitals. She showed how good nursing could improve and often save the lives of sick people. In 1854 Florence Nightingale took a group of English nurses to the Crimea, where Britain and France were at war with Russia. She set up a hospital there and saved from death many people. She became known as 'the lady of the lamp' because she used to go round the hospital at night, helping the patients and the other nurses, and holding an oil lamp in her hand. In 1907 Florence Nightingale was awarded a medal for her work.

BCaring for the poor

*Mother Teresa was a nun*. She was born in Macedonia, a country in Central Europe, but she is most famous for her work in India. She lived in Calcutta, one of the poorest cities in India. When she saw children living in very poor conditions, and sick or unwanted babies left in the streets to die, she decided to do something to help them. When she started, she was working with children who lived on the streets in Calcutta. Soon other nuns wanted to help her with her work. Today these nuns can be seen, dressed in their blue and white Indian saris, working in the poorest areas of cities all over the world. In her lifetime, Mother Teresa received many awards, the biggest of which was the Nobel Peace Prize given to her in 1979. But she always said that her greatest reward was helping people.*
